

A sleek, black and grey monitor arm is shown in a studio setting. The arm is mounted on a desk and is extended outwards, holding a monitor. The background is a dark, blurred cityscape at night, with lights from buildings and streets visible through a window. The arm has a modern, industrial design with a red accent line running along its length. The monitor is a flat-panel display, and the arm is shown in a position that demonstrates its flexibility and range of motion.
